Vintage Saratoga hotel restored

A 140-year-old Victorian-era hotel in upstate Saratoga Springs has reopened after a four-year, $24 million restoration.

The 32-room Adelphia Hotel opened its doors Sunday to visitors for the first time since it was shut down four years ago for a top-to-bottom restoration.

The Adelphi is Saratoga's oldest surviving hotel. It originally opened in 1877 in the midst of Saratoga's golden age, 14 years before the spa-resort town's famous thoroughbred race-track opened.

Richbell Capital purchased the Adelphi in 2012 for $4.5 million. AP
